Code Orange is a young adult novel published in 2005 by the best-selling author Caroline B. Cooney. The main character is Mitty Blake, a lackluster high school student living in Manhattan. When he is assigned to write a research project on an infectious disease for biology class, he does as little as possible for his assignment, as always.

Unfortunately, Cooney's exposition is significantly less effective than Westerfeld's and--for all its potential for high drama and major gross outs-- Code Orange fails as anything but an hysterical and reactionary novel.
