Lesson 1: The Man Who Cried About a Wall (Nehemiah 1:1-11 ...)

A wall would enable the re-establishment of Jerusalem as a major city and center of trade, making it a competitor to Samarian cities. More pertinently, however, the wall would serve as a means of protection and separation from their enemies. For that reason, God chose Nehemiah to lead the Jews in rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem.
The builders “built with one hand, while holding daggers in the other” (Nehemiah 4:11), building during the day and guarding the wall at night (Nehemiah 4:16). But Nehemiah did not deal only with the physical problems of the community. He fought with the community’s leaders over their non-Jewish wives (in Nehemiah chapter 13).
