Road Trip Usa The Loneliest Road

A road trip along US-50 follows time from colonial-era landscapes through the Wild West to high-tech Silicon Valley, the state’s latest business mecca. The road is home to ghost towns, ghost ranches, ghost farms, ghost mines, and death mines. The Loneliest Road: Highway 50 cuts through Nevada, with its 153,000 square miles, the largest of the contiguous states. This is the Great Basin, America’s dry place. Nevada’s mountainous backcountry is dotted with ghost towns on every old US route. A road trip across the state is a journey of discovery; you will find scenes of starkness and opulence, beauty and tragedy. The Loneliest Road: Highway 50 is often bypassed by modern-day travelers in the rush to get somewhere else. In America’s Heartland, it is more likely you will be passed by a speeder than by another vehicle. The Loneliest Road: Highway 50 is a forum for the unique and the unusual.
